

2014 Housing EXPO

Working together for stronger communities

NeighborWorks Week

Springfield Neighborhood Housing Services presents:
“Working Together for a Stronger Community” a Housing EXPO June 7, 2014 10am-2pm at the Rebecca M. Johnson School.

This event, hosted by SNHS kicks off NeighborWorks week, where NeighborWorks America and its network of local organizations like Springfield Neighborhood Housing Services mobilize tens of thousands of volunteers, business people, neighbors, friends, and local and national elected and civic leaders in a week of neighborhood change and awareness.

Exhibitors will include realtors, lenders, landscape professionals, non-profit groups, and city agencies. Exhibitors will share information that will help homeowners to gain excitement and inspiration to fulfill their projects and potential homeowners will receive information and support on the road to homeownership.

We will offer a series of short presentations focusing on sustainability and green building topics along with “how to hire a contractor.” Additionally, we will provide entertaining games, talent and music. A highlight of our fair will be a special onsite edition of our First Time Homebuyers Class for potential homebuyers.

Our objective is to reach out and share our message of Homeownership and renewed pride in the communities where we live. Your participation will go a long way in spreading the message that “Home Matters”
